

From: Bryana Britts [bryana@sacnas.org]
Sent: Wednesday, April 15, 2009 1:13 PM
To: Bryana Britts
Subject: geosciences travel scholarships available for 2009
Sacnas conference

Dear Colleague,

SACNAS requests your support in announcing a unique opportunity for all of your students in the geosciences

The 2009 SACNAS National Conference in Dallas, Texas has 50 Travel Scholarships available specifically for undergraduate students and graduate students in the following fields:

Atmospheric Science, Geology, Geophysics, Glacial Geology, Earth Sciences, Meteorology, Mineralogy, Geochemistry, Geobiology, Oceanography, GPS, Paleontology, Seismology and many more!

In addition to Nobel Laureate keynotes, professional development sessions, and networking events, SACNAS will feature several geosciences sessions, including:

- Geobiology: Opportunities at the Horizon Between Life and Earth
- New Interdisciplinary Collaborations in the Geosciences at NSF Centers
- Native Geosciences: Strengthening Pathways Through Tribal Traditions & Heart of Everything That Is

All eligible students must apply by the May 1st deadline to be considered*. Travel Scholarships cover travel, lodging, and meal costs. Please click here for more information.

*Note: Students who will participate in a summer research program in 2009 have until July 10th to submit their applications. Check here for eligibility.

SACNAS appreciates your help in communicating this opportunity to all of your students and colleagues. See you in Dallas!

Questions? Please contact Director of Programs, Nick Mucha at nick@sacnas.org